Jigyasa Special

The Cat's Judgement

This Panchatantra story is about a partridge who lived under a big peepul tree. One day, she left in search of food and stayed away for a few days. In her absence, a rabbit found her empty nest and started living there.

When the partridge returned, she was shocked to see the rabbit in her home. They argued over who the nest truly belonged to but couldn't agree. So, they decided to find a wise judge to settle the matter.

They came across a tom-cat who was pretending to be old and holy, praying with his eyes closed. The animals believed he was kind and fair, so they told him their story. The cat said he couldn't hear well and asked them to come closer. As soon as they did, the wicked cat pounced and ate them both.
